

You've Got Mail!

Inspired by Loser by Jerry Spinelli

For this email writing activity, you will take on two roles. For one role, you should write from Zinkoff's perspective, and the other you should write from the perspective of another character from the book.

What questions would Zinkoff and this other character ask each other? What information would they share? How would each character approach each other? Be creative, have fun, and use details or character traits from the book in your responses!

New Message

To

From

Subject

New Message

To

From

Subject